I had thus the satisfaction to find Buonapartes career farther northward effectually stopped, by a warlike people inhabiting an impenetrable country. General Klebers division had been sent eastward towards the fords of the Jordan, to oppose the Damascus army; it was recalled from thence to take its turn in the daily essorts to mount the breach at Acre, in which every other division in succeflion had failed, with the loss of their bravest men, and above threefourths of their officers. It seems much was hoped from this division, as it had by its sirmnels, and the steady front it opposed...
